

Wolf

Across

- These are in the wolf family, but smaller.
- A ground burrow large enough to crawl into, often with bits of prey littered about.
- The number of different kinds of wolves in the world.
- Canis domesticus*.
- Two different species that can mate and produce young.
- A group of wolves is called this.
- Although they usually eat meat, sometimes they nibble on these.
- The basic biological classification of similar living organisms that can interbreed.
- The average number of wolves in a pack.
- The dominant male of the pack. (2 words)
- The latin name for the Grey Wolf. (2 words)

Down

- The common name used to describe the dog Family.
- Wolves can go for days without doing this.
- Many wolf pups are killed each year by vehicles on these.
- Very dark, one of the colours of the wolf.
- Alone, a wolf is about to hunt down these hopping mammals.
- One of the food sources for wolves when they hunt in packs.
- The part of a mammal's face that sticks out, with the nose and mouth on it.
- An animal that is hunted or killed by another for food.
- Feces (poop).
- Wolf young are called this.

